STATUS OF PROSECUTION

A Federal grand jury at Chicago, Illinois, on January 5, 1971 returned a true bill of indictment, number 71 CR 2, charging STANLEY RAY BOND and ROBERT JOSEPH VALERI with the armed robbery of $8,086.00 from the Prudential Savings and Loan Association, Evanston, Illinois, on August 18, 1970 in violation of Title 18, U.S. Code, Section 2113(a) and (d). The case was assigned to District Judge ABRAHAM LINCOLN MAROVITZ for trial. Bond was fixed at $200,000 each by Chief Judge EDWIN A. ROBSON. Bench warrants were issued and lodged as detainers by U.S. Marshal, Boston, Massachusetts. U

BOND was returned to Chicago under a writ of habeas corpus ad prosequendum and was arraigned on the indictment on May 13, 1971. He stood mute in court and a Federal defender attorney, LEVINSON, entered a plea of not guilty. Judge MAROVITZ continued the case for motions and to set trial on June 11, 1971. U

Assistant U.S. Attorney RICHARD F. SPRAGUE, Chicago, on May 25, 1971, advised that Assistant U.S. Attorney EDWARD J. LEE, Boston, had informed him that VALERI has agreed to plead guilty to the Prudential robbery and that he will either come to Chicago and plead or will plead under Rule 20, Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure at Boston. Mr. LEE further advised that BOND has repeatedly stated he will make every effort to disrupt any trial in any way possible. Mr. SPRAGUE advised he had informed Judge MAROVITZ. U

GENERAL INVESTIGATIVE DIVISION

Attached teletype from Boston reports beginning of trial for subject Stanley Ray Bond in connection with the burglary on 9/20-21/70 of the National Guard Armory, Newburyport, Massachusetts, which also involves 2 current top ten fugitives, Susan E. Saxe and Katherine A. Power. It should be noted that these same individuals involved in Boston, Massachusetts, bank robbery on 9/23/70 wherein a police officer was brutally murdered. U

Upon being lead into court room Bond bolted from group of U. S. Marshals and attacked Assistant U. S. Attorney (AUSA) Edward J. Lee. Bond was forcibly subdued, handcuffed and placed in leg irons. After being seated, front row court room, Bond again bolted from U. S. Marshals and attempted to attack court officials. He was again subdued and ordered to the rear of court room where he shouted obscenities at the judge and the U. S. Judicial System. Bond subsequently removed from court room and following noon recess was returned at the instructions of the judge who inquired of Bond if he was willing to be present without disrupting proceedings. Bond assured the judge to the contrary stating he would do everything to physically or otherwise disrupt proceedings. He was again ordered removed and trial continued. AUSA declined prosecutive opinion re violation of Assaulting a Federal Officer as he, AUSA, was directly involved and matter was referred to U. S. Attorney in Boston. Opinion re assaults not contemplated until completion of trial. U

Judge Has Cop-Killer Suspect Ejected

Stanley R. Bond, accused of murder in connection with the slaying of a Boston patrolman during a bank holdup last September, was dragged from a federal courtroom here Thursday, screaming obscenities.

Bond, 26, of Cambridge, was on trial in U.S. District Court for a break into the Newburyport National Guard Armory three days before the bank holdup in Brighton. A quantity of ammunition taken from the armory was found in the Back Bay apartment of another suspect in the holdup-slaying.

Thursday, following the completion of the selection of a 14-member jury, Bond repeatedly shouted obscenities and epithets at Judge Francis J. Murray. When six assistant United States marshals failed to silence Bond, Murray ordered him removed from the courtroom.

The marshals began escorting Bond out but he resisted.

Bond also shouted that he was dedicated to the overthrow of the government, a position he has often stated since his capture last Sept. 28 in Grand Junction, Colo.

Judge Murray excused the jury temporarily and ordered a recess. He had cautioned Bond several times before ordering him evicted and said the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled the defendant does not have to be in the courtroom during a trial if he persists in disrupting the proceedings.

When his lawyer, Robert Mardrosian, rose to try to quell the disturbance, Bond said to him: "Oh, sit down, Bob. You're an officer of the court."

Two other suspects in the $26,000 robbery of the Brighton branch of the State Street Bank and Trust Co. on Sept. 23 during which patrolman Walter A. Schroeder was fatally shot, have been indicted on charges in connection with the Newburyport armory raid. They are William Gilday, 41, of Amesbury, and Robert J. Valeri, 21, of Somerville.

Bond and Gilday are scheduled to stand trial Oct. 4 in Suffolk Superior Court on the murder charge.

Two other suspects in the holdup-murder case are still at large. Police still are seeking Susan Saxe, 21, of Albany, N. Y., and Katherine B. Power, 21, of Denver, Colo.

When the afternoon session opened, Bond, handcuffed behind his back, wearing leg irons and under heavy guard, told Judge Murray he had not changed his mind on how he would act.

"Take him out," said Judge Murray.

Marshals took Bond to the courthouse lockup and the trial proceeded with the defendant in absentia.

Defendant Threatens U.S. Judge

By DON SARVEY

Stanley Ray Bond, calling himself as a revolutionary at war with the United States," was removed from court by federal marshals yesterday after repeatedly shouting threats and obscenities at the judge and jurors.

And as he was being led District Court m-dpohuescvx—out, Bond turned to the judge Frank J. Murray in U.S. District Court and said: "If one of these gentlemen (the marshals) will loan me a gun, I'll come back in here and shoot you in the head, just to prove I'm serious. Goodbye."

BOND, 26, of Pasadena, Calif., went on trial yesterday on charges of stealing a pick-up truck, three radios sets, four detonating machines and 400 rounds of 30 caliber ammunition from the Newburyport National Guard Armory on Sept. 20. If found guilty, he could be sentenced to 10 years in jail, a $10,000 fine or both.

Bond also faces trial in October on murder charges stemming from the attempted robbery of a bank in Brighton in which veteran Boston Patrolman Walter Schroeder was shot to death. The robbery of the bank took place Sept. 23, three days after the break in the Newburyport armory.

Also indicted in the armory robbery and the Brighton murder of Patrolman Schroeder and still at large are Susan E. Saxe, 21, of Albany, N.Y. and Katherine M. Power, 21 of Denver, Colorado, former Brandeis students. Bond had attended Brandeis under a special education program for ex-convicts.

Others indicted in the robbery and murder cases were William Gilday, 41, of Newburyport and Robert J. Valerie, 21, of Leominster. Valeri took the witness stand in the afternoon and told the court he had pleaded guilty to the robbery charges on Wednesday.

Bond twice ejected from court for disruptions

Stanley R. Bond was twice removed yesterday from the Federal courtroom where he is on trial for the theft of 400 rounds of ammunition from the Newburyport Armory.

Bond, 26, of Pasadena, Calif., is also facing trial in connection with the slaying of Boston patrolman Walter Schroeder during a Brighton bank robbery last September.

Bond was ordered from the courtroom at the morning session when he continued to shout obscenities at Judge Frank J. Murray and assistant US attorney Edward J. Lee.

On the way out, Bond told Judge Murray that if he had a gun he would shoot him through the head.

Judge Murray had warned Bond several times that if he continued to disrupt the trial he would be ejected from the courtroom and the trial would proceed in absentia.

Bond replied that it was his avowed purpose to disrupt the trial and that he wanted to be evicted.

Judge Murray reminded Bond that under the US

Constitution, he had a right to be present at his trial but that the trial would proceed without his presence, if he did not conduct himself in a proper manner.

Bond wrestled almost continually with his guards, and hurled obscene remarks at the judge and the prosecutor.

After the jury of three women, nine men and two alternates was seated, Judge Murray told Lee to make his opening.

As Lee told the panel of the charge against Bond, Bond shouted: "The guns are not government property. They belong to the people."

As Lee continued with his opening, Bond shouted that the people were staging a revolution and that the government must fall.

After about five minutes of a shouting match between Lee and the defendant, Judge Murray called a halt.

He ordered the jury to leave and directed US Marshal John A. Birknes and his men to take Bond from the courtroom.

Bond was returned to the courtroom for the afternoon session and Judge Murray inquired if he had decided to conduct himself in a proper manner.

Bond said: "I intend to disrupt this trial and will do everything in my power to do so."

"Very well," said Judge Murray, "remove this man from the courtroom and the trial will proceed without him."

Bond made no protest as he was escorted out of the courtroom. He was taken to the marshal's office, surrounded by the deputy marshals.
